Q&A

What are you most passionate about?

I am passionate about using my voice for good and helping people the best way I can to the best of my abilities. Standing up for the things I believe in.

What was an early experience where you learned that you had power?

From a very young age, I did a lot of volunteer work with my mum at various nonprofits. I knew I had a unique power to help people back then. Volunteering is a great way to build new skills and get to learn from others.

What is something most people don't know about you?

I love to sing. I took singing lessons when I was younger. I did live band karaoke and sang in singing competitions. Singing is so much fun for me and a great stress reliever. I can remember the first album I bought in middle school. I used to make mix tapes for my friends. I guess you can say that's where I got my start in being creative.

I'm a blogger for medium.com I post blogs about business growth, mindset and lifestyle entertainment. I've recently fell in love with writing. I was encouraged by a friend to start my blog. I do have a lot that I can talk about and blend my love of what I do here.

WEBSITE

What's the greatest piece of advice you ever received?

The greatest advice I have ever received is to keep going and be who you are. Authenticity will get you far in life. My will power to rise above whatever challenges I have been through keeps in tact.

Who is/was the most inspiring person in your life and why?

I have a couple of people who inspires me, but my mum is the person who does. I admire the strength she has about the way she cares about people. I hope I can be an example like her to my family and friends. She teaches me kindness and passion. She is a very hard worker.

What's next for you?

I am working on a couple of personal and passion projects. My podcast is already almost to season 2. I can't wait for the guest speakers that I am interviewing I will be taking a deep dive into other topics and such. I am always experimenting with branding strategies and creative design seeing what works and doesn't for my clients. Sometimes opportunities can appear in places you don't expect it too. I keep myself open for possibilities to grow in my creative spaces.

Phyllis Weaver

In Hampton, Virginia, my parents taught me strong faith and work ethics. In addition, they helped me become a well-rounded individual by nurturing me in academics, sports, school and church activities, and my talents.

I am a first-generation college graduate and received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology from the University of Virginia in 1983 and a Master of Arts in Biology from Hampton University in 1985. There I worked as a Botany lab professor and researched free radicals and their relationship to a mysterious disease that had no name that was later called AIDS. I landed a position at McNeil Pharmaceuticals in the Bio-Psychology Department. Later I entered the Medical College of Virginia School of Pharmacy and became a Registered Pharmacist in 1988. I was soon married in 1989 but divorced 17 years later. I am the mother of two sons who are both North Carolina A & T University graduates.

I am still working as a pharmacist; however, I am a Pre-Chronic Illness Specialist and now the Founder and CEO of Discover Ultimate Health, LLC. My goal is to inspire, motivate and help professional women, prevent chronic illnesses, reverse self-sabotaging habits, and address mental health issues associated with illness and trauma. My company also includes "Oh Wow Wellness Creations," a bath and skincare. In addition, I am the author of "Reverse Diabetes Now, The Proven 365 Day Technique." Also, I have plans for my Non-Profit, "Christine's Heart," which was inspired by my close family members lost to domestic violence. Finally, I have a dream to acquire properties to address homelessness in our communities.

I am a member of several professional organizations, including the National Diabetes Association and the International Association of Women.

For fun, I enjoy piano, theatre, and fitness.

I am committed to health and wellness and generational wealth for individuals, families, and the community.

How are you changing the world?

Everyone deserves to be mentally, physically, and spiritually healthy. But not everyone has the support they need to live a healthy, fulfilling life. That's where I come in. I work with busy people challenged with lifestyle-induced chronic illnesses, type 2 diabetes, high blood pressure, and cardiovascular disease. I help them with changing habits to overhaul their health. For people who have a sense of despair and overwhelm, I help them enjoy normal daily activities with friends and family, restore peace of mind, and have a complete lifestyle and health transformation. By affecting one family member at a time, I can potentially affect an entire community. For people who have a sense of despair and overwhelm, I help them enjoy normal daily activities with friends and family, restore peace of mind, and have a complete lifestyle and health transformation. By affecting one family member at a time, I can potentially affect an entire community.

What are you most passionate about?

Freedom. My passions go beyond health and wellness from physical illnesses, but the complete self, including your mental, emotional, and spiritual self. I advocate for women and their children affected by domestic violence who live in situations where they have no freedom to be themselves or have a voice. They have endured mental, physical, emotional, and sometimes spiritual abuse and a possible chronic illness.

What was an early experience where you learned that you had power?

I learned about the power of prayer and that I had the power of protection when I was three years old, and that I had a shield of protection around me no matter how scary or painful a situation was. I knew I would be saved and recover. I developed an unstoppable resilience and the ability to bounce back like a rubber band. At the age of 3, many things happened in my life. I was severely burned on my arm, a German Shepherd attacked me, and I was threatened by a nursery schoolteacher to be beaten for correcting her. The crazy thing about it, my mother discovered that I was right. I also learned that I was gifted at learning and understanding quickly. I was precocious, inquisitive, and an empath.

What is something most people don't know about you?

Most people do not know that my first love is piano and theater. I write music and poems. I never intended to attend pharmacy school. It just happened by a series of circumstances. I wanted to audition for Julliard, but I had no family support and was a first-generation college prospect. I wanted to play the piano in the orchestra pit and perform on Broadway. I was a member of the International Thespian Society in High School and Peninsula Community Theatre. I am currently a member of Backstage. I have a dream to write a play. I love art, both collecting and creating.

What's the greatest piece of advice you ever received?

Always put God first in everything because He wants the best for you. Go to college, get an education, and a great job to always take care of yourself and never depend on a man. Remember how valuable you are.

Who is/was the most inspiring person in your life and why?

My mother is the most inspirational person in my life for many reasons. She had a unique way about her where everyone felt at home around her. Our home was always the place for the family to have get-togethers and cookouts, and all of our friends enjoyed coming over to play or socialize. Although we did not have a lot, my mother taught us value and quality and took great care. She took pride in being a lady and being respectful and respectable. She taught me the importance of being honest and trustworthy. She had the biggest heart and would give her last to those in need. I learned strong work ethics, persistence, and strong faith from her. She was gifted as an artist, cook, baker, singer and loved working as a nurse's aide. She wanted to become a registered nurse. She made self-sacrifices so that my brother and I could have a better life than she had. I think of my mother whenever I hear the song called "I'll Always Love My Mama" by The Intruders. She grew up in a share-cropper family and had big dreams of going to college, but she did accomplish some academic goals. She completed her GED and attended Jr College. She always had about three jobs and was so tired, but she always had a beautiful smile no matter what. I love and miss her. I attended college and went into healthcare because of her influence.

What's next for you?

I have another book on the horizon about some challenging and pivotal moments in my life and how God rescued me. Additionally, I plan to expand my product line," Oh, Wow, Wellness Creations by Phyllis." The vision for my non-profit, Christine's Heart, will come to fruition, and I plan to pursue real estate investing through my company PhylMar Enterprises.

Kiana Smith is a mommy entrepreneur of four. She was born and raised in Syracuse, New York with a southern and West Indian (Basian) background.

Kiana came from your average military Christian working-class family. She was about 7 years old, and her mom had a stroke. Kiana had two siblings. One sister who was 11 years older than her and one brother who was 16 years older than her. When her mom had the stroke the family, she knew was torn with her brother going to the military and her sister moving away and some family members trying to put her into a foster care until her father got her. Kiana had grown up as if she was the only child due to the age gap in her siblings and the lack of relatives around which made her a little more mature then other children her age.

Kiana pursued modeling for about 14 years on and off with runway. Video shoots, Brand Ambassador work, urban films along with shooting some commercial roles and magazine publishing's. She is now a super model with three #1 DRT cover albums with her ECMD family in 2020. She also co-hosts Mix-A-Holic Mondays with Award winning DJ Punch and Kermit the Superstar maker and more on a weekly zoom call that is aired on Facebook live and YouTube.

Model Kiana Smith has now launched her own brand call "Young Queens" which is dedicated to help support and mold woman of all ages in the world and to help inspire and build our young woman today on all platforms in life including education and self-awareness. With all the struggles she has faced in her lifetime she is looking to spread the love and motivation for other woman to know and feel that they are not alone. She also knows how important a queen's beauty is along with the inspiration and motivation we need to gracefully move through life. Which is why she has launched an online beauty supply for Men and Woman called… "Young Queens Beauty Supply store. It's an online ecommerce store now but anyone is able to shop from anywhere in the world and have their items delivered to their doorstep. Please be sure to check it

How are you changing the world?

I am a multi-cultural bridge builder. I use my experiences in the fashion, business, and music industries to reach people of diverse backgrounds. I show genuine care and compassion to everyone I meet.

What are you most passionate about?

Generosity is one of the Christian principles I grew up learning. At some point in our lives, we all need a helping hand. As a little queen you could always find me giving and caring about my friends and comforting them when they were feeling rejected and alone. I am still that way today.

What was an early experience where you learned that you had power?

Oh boy …. For me I learned that I had power after overcoming domestic violence. I was left on my own to survive with my only child at the time. I took my pain and put it to use although I had no idea what I was doing. I stepped up. I vowed to myself and my son to get far away from that toxic environment no matter how hard I had to work. I took on three jobs and took classes all while living in a domestic shelter. I never considered my myself as a victim. I keep striving toward my goals in life no matter how hard.

It was at that time my son was diagnosed as special needs with a learning disability due to ADHD. I grew my wings mentally and physically. I wanted to be an example of strength and courage to my son.

What is something most people don't know about you?

I struggle badly with communication due to domestic violence, but I am constantly breaking through more every day. I was partially disabled for a few years due to multiple back injuries and am still rebuilding myself. Yet, I keep a positive attitude every day, I am happy to be able to continue with my career and growth.

What's the greatest piece of advice you ever received?

"Treat others how you would want to be treated" and "If I don't get the job done nobody else will."

Who is/was the most inspiring person in your life and why?

My mom, her strength in fighting so long with health conditions. I am also very much inspired by Oprah and Michelle Obama.

What's next for you?

I want to expand my career in the entertainment world through more modeling and acting opportunities. I want to continue in my growing role as a social media influencer. I desire to share my experiences by becoming a motivational speaker. I am so excited and terrified at the same time, but you know they say you're not supposed to be comfortable when breaking new grounds and reaching for higher limits.

Danielle McDaniel

Dainelle is the founder of VSC a digital marketing firm. VSC was founded by Danielle McDaniel, in Atlanta, Georgia in late 2020. With visions of her own to capture the marketing industry from a unique angle, creating a safe place for startup companies/ small businesses to get the proper top-notch digital marketing at affordable prices to assist in building brand awareness.

"The marketing industry is pricey regardless of your mission, which creates a wall between a dope purpose-filled vision and their audience. I created VSC to break that wall and any wall created to limit small businesses with meaningful motives. If someone wants to make a dynamic impact in the world, I refuse to allow marketing issues to limit that."

Dainelle is also an author is an innovative, visionary author. Creating books such as “Pretty Brown Princess,” to help young girls to see their true potential. Danielle’s purpose for writing started with poetry as a young girl, as she came to realize there’s no better feeling than transferring her visions, passions and her soul from the mind into the universe. This mother of one from Atlanta, GA has a unique mission to encourage our youth to be confident within themselves. A mission to produce fearless, God fearing, optimistic leaders. Leaders that shall soon use their bright minds to conquer the world in all that they do.

LaDonica Whitfield

Empowered Essence

LaDonica was Born and raised in Clearwater, Florida by her grandparents. LaDonica has always had a passion to help people and become an entrepreneur.

Two months prior to graduating high school, she learned that she was pregnant. Acceptance letter into FAMU, two scholarships and accepted into the navy, she had a very big choice to make. Deciding to keep her unborn child, disappointment arose from her family. Being determined not to become a statistic, she enrolled in community college to become a RN while she was pregnant.

Like most college students, she changed career paths and eventually became a Medical Assistant. Unhappily, she settled into that career for over 8 years to provide for her daughter. In 2018, she finally decided to take a leap of faith and change career paths to pursue documented Entrepreneurship. She enrolled in Esthetician school full time while taking a $3 pay cut to work overnights at a homeless shelter.

LaDonica experienced very little sleep, depression and debt. Feeling so isolated and alone, she was ready to give up. However, after being open about what she was going through to a complete stranger, she realized that other women had overcome similar barriers for a better life. This was the start of empowered Essence. Linking wealthy-minded minority women together, educating, inspiring, motivating and building a community of true sisterhoods.

How are you changing the world?

Building a community of support, connection, encouragement and value. This allows us to monitor, observe, intervene, and redirect in an effort to provide life skills training that focuses' on behavioral, interpersonal, communication, self-help, safety and daily living skills.

What are you most passionate about?

Christian Mental Health is not about being overly spiritual or religious, it's about wellness, wholeness and worthiness.

What was an early experience where you learned that you had power?

It was in the church, my foundation was created and crafted in the AME Zion church. As 11 year old, I was always in leadership roles and people loved to hear me speak. I was a conference youth Vice President, Youth District President and also a Local Youth President. This gave me the opportunity to converse and learn from the likes of Bishop George WC Walker Sr, Bishop George Battle and Bishop W. Darin Moore.

What is something most people don't know about you?

My journey. I was on SSI for 10 years. During that time, I volunteered at a local homeless shelter for over 5 years. Eventually I was able to become the director for community relations. This involved a partnership with Walmart called "Feeding America". We would go pick up donated food from Walmart and redistribute to local community organization including the Salvation Army, several drug rehab facilities, women's shelters and a youth dentition center in 3 different counties. I was also able to teach classes that inspired prayer, empowerment and wisdom. This became the foundation for what I do today.

Tonia is planning to start a journaling support group to begin April 8, 2022, for Survivors of Abuse

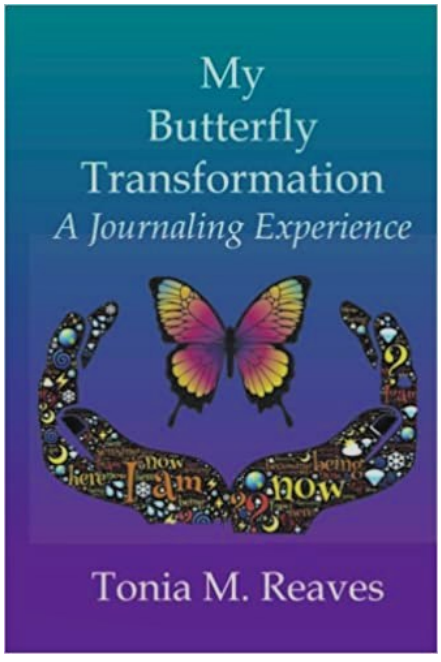

How are you changing the world?

I am a survivor of Child Molestation and Domestic Violence. I decided to do everything in my ability to end domestic violence in as many lives as God will allow. God helped me to provide meals, shelter, and financial help to families, as well as equipped me to put smiles on the faces of children during the Christmas holidays. I encourage and uplift women and children to push past their circumstances no matter how bad it hurts. I teach them how to overcome their circumstances rather than become prisoner to them.

What are you most passionate about?

I am very passionate about being able to help others to thrive. I want them to know what it feels like to be able to say, "I went through the fire and came out as pure Gold".

What was an early experience where you learned that you had power?

One day, in my mess, I cried out to God to put me in a position to be able to protect my children. We were in the abuse coming toward the end of that dreadful chapter in our lives. I was tired and had enough. I was at my breaking point. If God didn't see me fit to be help, I was at the end of my rope. God spoke to me clearly and told me exactly what to do. He never stopped talking to me. I had allowed fear of abuse to drown out His voice. In that moment I heard Him remind me that devil has no power over me. Speak loudly and declare victory as I rebuked the spirit that had taken over my spouse to cause him to hurt me and my children. God had used my voice to put that spirit under arrest. This is when I knew that if I would just humble myself and pray, if I would put away the sin of worry, shame, and fear, God will give me the power to use my situation to help others to get the help they needed. I realized the truth about God and myself.

What is something most people don't know about you?

Most people don't know that even though I am free from the abuse, and that I know God has my back no matter what, I still deal with the residual effects, but I learned to use them to help others so that they don't hurt me anymore. I use my experiences to mastermind a plan to teach other survivors how to become Victors.

What's the greatest piece of advice you ever received?

Learn how to see what God sees in me, learn how to embrace the woman He made me to be, and learn how to love me unconditionally.

Who is/was the most inspiring person in your life and why?

My grandmothers, I had three of them. Zottie Plaxico, Louise Reaves, and Thelma Plaxico. Thelma was actually my Great Aunt, but she was my adopted Grandmother. These Three each played a very significant role in my life. Grandma Zottie taught me how to cook and how to never take stuff off an abusive man. Grandma Louise taught me how to dress classy and to act like a Lady and how to carry myself like a Queen. Grandma Thelma was specifically assigned to me. She planted the seed in me to be the generational curse breaker of domestic abuse, sexual abuse, and poverty in our family. Even though I experienced it, the charge for me was to eradicate it in my blood line. She taught me to pray and praise God at the age of four. She taught me how to repent so that I would always do my best to be pleasing to God. Even when I fell short, I knew how to go to God to ask for forgiveness and to not live in the stink of shame.

What's next for you?

My plans for the next few years of my life, is to continue to release books, self-help, motivational, and educational books. I plan to travel the world with a mission to save women and children from abuse and poverty. My books will help me get to every country God wants me to go. Right here in the Chicagoland Area, I am working on getting my Ministry, Life Empowerment & Survival Min, Inc. up and running strong. We teach Victims how to become victorious over their circumstances. My final goal is to speak in Washington DC before Congress to impress upon them the need to provide mental health and intervention resources to high-risk youth, incarcerated inmates, and to speak up about sexual abuse against children. If we can put an end to the hurting at an early age, we will be able to prevent so many new offenders.

MONIKA & VAUGHAN JAZYK

Monika Jazyk is a wife and proud mother of four wonderful, yet expensive, children. After the completion of her master's in teaching and birth of her eldest son, Monika chose to stay home with her growing family, sacrificing income of a full-time wage. To create monthly income to be able to fund immediate and future expenses for her children, Monika and her husband Vaughan chose Real Estate as an investment vehicle to create extra income and build long-term wealth.

They have created a successful Real Estate Portfolio consisting of Buy Rent Hold properties allowing Monika to stay home to raise her 4 children while assuring all their immediate and future needs are met.

Monika is also co-owner of RPI Education, the world's fastest growing investment community and is on a mission to help everyday people invest like the top 2%! Monika is passionate about helping other people create wealth through Real Estate and alternative investments so they can reach their financial and personal goals.

To date RPI Education has assisted thousands of people across the globe to build wealth and create time, money freedom in their lives.

Monika spends her days seeking joy in everyday life through travel, philanthropy, friends and most importantly, family.

How are you changing the world?

RPI Education has helped thousands of people across the globe build wealth like the Top 2% by investing in Real Estate and aim to help 1,000,000 people across the globe by filling the wealth gap experienced in society today, by making real estate investing (as well as other wealth building techniques) common practice in everyday peoples financial plan.

What are you most passionate about?

I am passionate about making a difference in the lives of others and helping them achieve time, money, freedom in their lives -something they never viewed as possible.

What was an early experience where you learned that you had power?

After the birth of our first child, I knew I wanted to be a stay at home mom although it had significant financial implications on our family. But instead of giving up we put finances to the forefront and made ourselves students of traditional financial planning ways. And when we realized this did not work, we found another way and learned how to invest in real estate. And when we made a million dollars in mistakes as real estate investors, we once again found another way and this time the right way, to build wealth for our family. And THIS is what we share with others. I have been a stay at home mom for almost 18 years now AND my husband has also been at home with me for over 5 years! I guess you can say perseverance is my power and one that not many people have, so we have designed systems through our own experiences so others do not have to go through any hardship, but instead can skip to the good part and immediately reap the benefits.

What is something most people don't know about you?

Although I reveal I have a Masters in Teaching , most people do not know that I originally wanted to be a Family and Marriage Therapist and that most of my education is on psychology, sociology and counseling. I also never worked as a Teacher full time, because I wanted to be a stay at home mom, but worked as a supply teacher for over 14 years. The criteria was I had to work 20 days a year to stay on the list….something I always struggled with and every year after March I had to get all of my hours in as I would much rather be with my kids or working on a real estate project.

What's the greatest piece of advice you ever received?

The greatest advice I ever received is from my late Mother who always said never settle for less than the best. She was a spectacular woman and an amazing role model who always lived a first class life that she created for herself even though she had to fight for it.

What's next for you?

We have recently launched our RPI Wealth Immersion program, which is an online program that guides people through the 7 keys to wealth in a systematic manner to show people exactly what to do, even if we never have the opportunity to speak to them!

This will help us reach our 1 million person goal of having everyday people invest like the Top 2% and replace the traditional financial planning model that no longer works so we can be game changers and fill this wealth gap once and for all!

About This Book

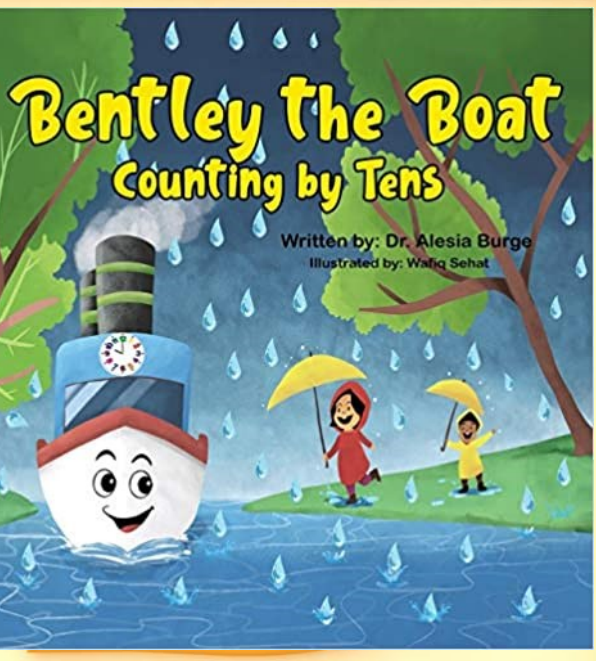

It is my earnest desire that “Things I Learned While Packing”' will help you navigate through your everyday experiences with a new perspective and insight into how life is just one moving journey. The paradigm is not in getting to the destination, but more about how we navigate the roads that lead us there.

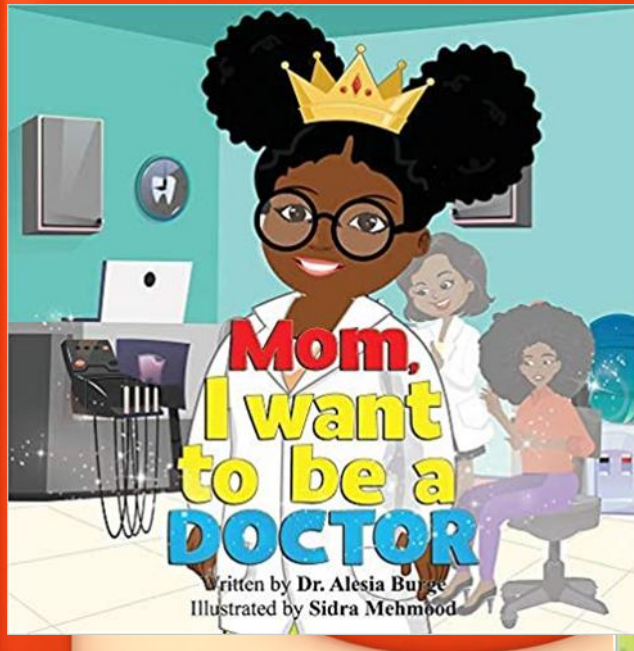

“I just finished your book and I want to thank you for sharing your story. Today we get a lot of social media editing, people only show the good and what success seems to look like. What people are not revealing is all the setbacks, steps, heartaches, etc that they had to endure to get where they currently are so thank you for your honesty. I also loved that you had a call to action through the exercises because while we all may not have the same journey we all have had adversity. Great read and I will definitely recommend this book to others. “

True alignment comes from who you are – not where you might find yourself.
